

DESIGNERS SATURDAY, OSLO 2017
BOSS & MINI BOSS

During Designers Saturday, September 8-10, Swedish design company Lammhults launches the waste paper bins Boss & Mini Boss at Berg Studio in Oslo. Nature and recycling has been the source of inspiration in designer Tuva Rivedal Tjugens design process.

As a result of Lammhults X-WORKS project, where five design students were chosen to have access to Lammhults product development team during a year, Boss & Mini Boss, two playful waste paper bins with associations to nature are now launched. That Norwegian designer Tuva Rivedal Tjugen has found her inspiration from nature is reflected in the pine cone shaped design and the overlapping steel layers resembling tree bark.

Tuva Rivedal Tjugen, about Boss: "Boss is a waste paper bin focusing on recycling. It's designed to give associations to nature, with the hope that it will inspire people to take care of our environment."

The choice of the ambiguous name "Boss" which means rubbish in norwegian concludes Tuva's vision for the product. It should be obvious to throw your rubbish in the bin and to achieve that it needs to demand attention in its surroundings, "like a boss".

Boss and Mini Boss are made of thin steel sheet, powder coated in a number of colours, and has a matching lid alternatively a lid in polished brass for a more exclusive touch. Both have a removable lid that covers the waste bag in a simple and neat way. The large bin contains a removable bucket that collects any liquid.

By combining a clear but organic expression, Boss stands out and catches the eye creating an inviting and fresh contribution in its surroundings. The waste paper bin comes in two sizes, the larger one is well suited for public environments and offices and the smaller one, Mini Boss, is an excellent choice for the personal workplace or home office. Separation at source can be clarified by selecting different colours on the bins for different materials.

Designers Saturday in Oslo is an annual recurring design event where the main actors in design and furnishings open up to their exhibitions in Oslo. This year we celebrate the 30th anniversary. Lammhult's agent Berg Studio has been with the company annually since its inception and at the present address, Lammhult's products have been shown since 1994.
